Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 16 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Windy and mild, with spells of rain.

This Evening and Tonight:
Showers, occasionally heavy, continue into the early evening, before clearing eastwards. Winds ease and clear spells develop for a time. A band of rain moves in from the west before dawn. Mild. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Wednesday:
Grey and murky initially as rain pushes through the region, clearing by mid morning giving bright spells for many. Turning cloudier from the south again later, with further rain developing. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Rain on Thursday morning clears to brighter conditions. Strong winds and further rain on Friday. Some outbreaks of rain on early on Saturday, with sunny spells and occasional showers later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.